1. Enclosure (1) is forwarded herewith for your retention and appropriate action.

2. No attempt has been made to assign priority or to limit contributions to those of a purely naval nature, and in fact, very few of those listed in enclosure (1) would fall into that category. This has been dictated: (1) by the sparsity of naval indicators in Moscow and the other major Soviet cities likely to be visited by Western observers; and (2) by the opportunity afforded us to discuss the subject with COL Leo DULACKI, USMC, whose broad experience as Acting Naval Attache and Assistant Naval Attache in Moscow over a three year period makes him uniquely well-qualified in this area. In this connection, it is suggested that COL DULACKI be called upon for further assistance in this project, perhaps after contributions have been received from all agencies involved. COL DULACKI is currently attached to the Intelligence Directorate (J-2), Joint Staff, JCS, and can be reached on Extension 55885.
